

Arup Bhattacharjee obtained his Bachelor's degree (B. Tech.) in Computer Engineering and Engineering from Guwahati University in India. He also holds Master's Degree (M. Tech.) from Computer Engineering and Engineering Department of Jadavpur University (India). He is a Ph.D. candidate at the same department of National Institute of Technology Silchar in India. He has worked as a Software Engineer and he is currently with the National Institute of Technology Silchar (India).

Sukumar Nandi received B.Sc. (Physics), BTech and MTech from Calcutta University. He received his PhD from Indian Institute of Technology Kharagpur. Currently, he is a Professor in Computer Science and Engineering Department, Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati. He was in School of Computer Engineering, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore as Visiting Senior Fellow. He is co-author of a book Theory and Applications of Cellular Automata published by IEEE Computer Society. He has published 180 Journals/Conferences papers. His research interests are traffic engineering, wireless networks and information security. He is Fellow of the Institution of Engineers (India) and Fellow of the IETE.